DETAILED ACTION

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

The process for recovering hydrocarbons as recited in claim 1 providing an injection fluid via an injection means to drive materials within a formation towards a production means, wherein said injection fluid comprises either (I) a first polymeric material and a second polymeric material having the chemical structures recited in claim 1; or alternatively (II) a third polymeric material as, for example having the chemical structure recited in claims 1 and 23.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP §809.02(a)

Art Unit: 1796

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species (I): a first polymeric material having the structure i) or ii) [as recited in claim 1] and a second polymeric material: claims 2-18,

Species (II): a third polymeric material: claims 19-23

3. The following claim(s) are generic: Claims 1 and 25-27.

4. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: USPN 6,660,802 to Eagland discloses using a polymeric compound in an oil field application wherein said polymeric compound is formed using compounds having structures i) and ii) for Species (I) as recited in claim 1. (Abstract; col. 1, line 19 to col. 2, line 12)

5. Applicant is required to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Applicant must elect one species from Species (I) and (II) as listed above.

That is, Applicant must elect one species from each of the following species.

(I) an injection fluid comprising a first polymeric material and a second polymeric material having the structures recited in claim 1; or

(II) an injection fluid comprising a third polymeric material in accordance with the structure recited in claim 1.

In addition, if Applicant elects Species (I), Applicant further must elect for examination the following:

a) for the second polymeric compound, one polymeric compound from an optionally-substituted polyvinylalcohol, polyvinylacetate and polyalkylene glycol as recited in claim 18.

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
